
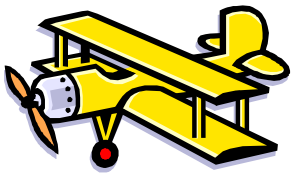
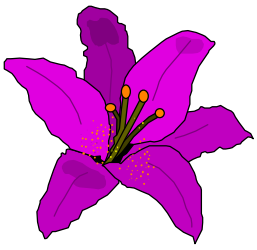
The little green tree frog peered up to the top of the kapok tree towering above him. He had spent his entire life on the forest floor and wondered what it would be like to climb to the top of the great tree . . .



Daryl gripped the edges of his seat as the small plane took off. He had won a trip to the Amazon rain forest and today marked the beginning of his adventure . . .



As the sun rose, Sarana quietly slipped out of her village. Her grandmother was very sick, and Sarana had promised to find a cure for her illness. She needed just two petals from the magical rainbow flower that grew deep in the rain forest . . .

The jungle animals gathered in the rain forest for a council meeting. Their leader, a colorful toucan, announced that something had to be done to stop the cattle ranchers. They had just begun clearing land for a new ranch . . .